The Nicaragua Canal.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The Herald publishes a communication from one who signs himself "a [illegible] of the inter-oceanic canal," and says in commenting thereon: "This writer aims to prove that the United States can secure their own safety against attack by means of the canal without in any way impairing the territorial rights of Colombia." This seems to us altogether entirely clear. Our correspondent thinks the two governments ought by a new convention, to settle definitely certain details of the relations of the two countries toward the canal. We see no harm in such a new convention, though we do not think it very important. The United States has no disposition to acquire new territory in the south or elsewhere. Southern republics have the Clayton-Bulwer treaty as their anchor of safety. We think it was a mistake in the last congress that it did not care for the Nicaragua Canal company. We believe that sound statesmanship demanded even encouragement of that enterprise by such a prudent government guarantee as was at one time asked. Rather than not see the canal built we should think the United States might wisely furnish the capital themselves.

Philosophically Inclined.

VICKSBURG, March 19.—The country about Clarksdale is inundated to a depth of three to six feet. The town, being on very high ground, is entirely safe. The country from Clarksdale to Fasonia, for 300 miles, is under water on both sides of the river as deep as last year. Considerable overflow was caused by the water from the Friars' point break in the Mississippi. The trip from William's can be made to Friar's point in a small boat. No loss to stock is reported. The inhabitants are confident that the water will pass off in time and make a fine crop. The finest crop for many years was raised in this section last year after the water fell.

The "Rocket" will be There.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Exhibits for the national exposition of railway appliances, which opens here March 24th, are being received in large numbers. Secretary Talcot to-day received a cablegram from London, stating that the old engine "Rocket," built by George Stephenson, and the first locomotive ever run upon a railroad, has been secured. It is now among the curiosities at the South Kensington museum. The exposition will have four of the oldest engines in existence. The other three include one from England, one from Nova Scotia, built by Stephenson, and one owned by the Baltimore and Ohio road.

Denver Notes.

DENVER, March 19.—Charles G. Ballard, at one time teller of one of the leading banks of Syracuse, committed suicide here last night.

D. J. Twomey, formerly of Boston, lately a wholesale confectioner of this city, choked to death to-day while eating fish at a lunch counter.

This evening, at Red Cliff, a small mining camp near Leadville, a man named Mansfield shot and instantly killed his wife and then put a ball through his own head. He will die. The cause was jealousy.

Panic-Stricken Audience.

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—Faranta's pavilion, on Bourbon and Orleans streets, was the scene of great excitement to-night. Just before the close of the performance an alarm of fire was given, and the large audience became panic-stricken and made a rush for the exit. The fire was subdued, and when quiet was restored it was found that two men, two women, a girl, boy and colored youth, were severely crushed by being trampled upon. Some are believed to be fatally hurt.

Sudden Change in the Weather.

ST. LOUIS, March 19.—One of the severest changes in the weather that has taken place this winter occurred this evening. The mercury in the afternoon marked 77 degrees. At 11 o'clock it fell below freezing, with nearly an inch of snow on the ground. Reports from Omaha, and other points in the northwest, say that the mercury is all the way from zero to 17 degrees below.

The Whole County Inundated.

GREENWOOD, Miss., March 19.—Tallahatchie county is overflowed and Greenwood submerged. The water is only 12 inches below that of 1882, but is rising slowly. From Greenwood to Henry island the whole country is submerged. Some of the largest Yazoo river planters are fearing that their interests will be seriously damaged.

Killed in a Quarrel.

CHILLICOTHE, O., March 19.—W. A. Keys, a farmer, stopped at the house of a man named Taylor, on his way home Sunday night. A quarrel arose. Taylor called out his brother John, and the two assaulted Keys, who drew a revolver and instantly killed Stanton and mortally wounded John. Keys was arrested.

A meeting of communists is announced to take place at the Pere la Chaise cemetery, where many of the communists are buried. A small meeting at St. Etienne was dispersed without resistance, and a similar meeting at Roubaix was dispersed with slight resistance and the arrest of eight persons. There has been no display of troops in Paris.

Attempt to Seduce Soldiers.

PARIS, March 19.—The meeting in the Brasserie des Paques of 800 socialists, at which a disturbance occurred, referred to in a Paris dispatch yesterday, was held in Geneva, not in Paris. Nine persons engaged therein were arrested.

Items Gathered from the North and South for the Benefit of Oregonian Readers.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—Additional defalcations have been discovered in the office of the harbor commissioners by the experts examining the secretary's accounts. Since the investigation was commenced irregularities on the returns of the amounts collected by wharfingers were discovered, as well as the flight of two deputies. Thos. Quirk and one of the missing men recently resigned, and since that time proceedings were commenced to recover from his bondsmen the sums retained by him, but the matter was quashed through the intervention of influential friends. Capt. Heeney, the second absconder, has taken with him upwards of $3000. Discrepancies in his accounts were kept from the public, and only within a few days have his friends received the information that he

He admitted that he represented stock in that company, all of which belonged to one of the four capitalists at present controlling the road; did not know to which. When the company dissolved it was $3,000,000 in debt, which was assumed by them. The contract price of the California and Oregon railroad was $30,000 per mile in stock and $20,000 in cash.

THE ASSAULT ON LADY DIXIE.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, March 19.—The Star's London special says: The whole United Kingdom has a new and startling sensation in the shape of a reported attempt to assassinate Lady Florence Dixie, who has for a year past or more been constantly badgering the custodians of the land league, and insisting that they had misappropriated large funds of it. Details of the attack thus given: Sir Beaumont and Lady Dixie were walking in a retired part of the grounds of their residence near Windsor, when Sir Beaumont pushed on ahead, leaving Lady Florence alone. Immediately afterward two strangers or men, who, it is supposed, had been following her, assaulted Lady Florence, and one of the men stabbed her in two places in the breast, but the steel ribs of her corset deflected the point of the knife, and prevented her from being wounded. During the struggle that ensued Lady Dixie fainted, and on regaining consciousness found that the men had disappeared. Lady Florence says that one of the men thrust earth into her mouth, preventing her from making an outcry. Sir Beaumont Dixie says that he frequently received threatening letters during his residence in Ireland.

The Herald's correspondent interviewed Lady Florence Dixie. She said: "I returned from Ireland six weeks ago, and came here for the purpose of retirement and quiet, as I have a great deal of work to do, though at this period of the year I invariably stay at our seat in Leicestershire. Saturday afternoon, at a quarter till 5, I sauntered into a plantation, which joins the fisheries, with my St. Bernard dog, and had reached a gate opening into Windsor road when my attention was first attracted to a soldier and woman passing by. While looking after them I was addressed by what appeared to be two tall women, dressed in long cloaks of dark stuff, and wearing veils, who asked me to tell them the time. I replied that I had no watch upon me, and turned back again into the plantation. I was about crossing a stile when I noticed that the women had followed me. This roused my suspicions as the ground was private, so I faced around to meet them. I had scarcely done so when one seized me by the throat and struck me violently on the head, and

THREW ME ON THE GROUND.

I called loudly for help, when they pushed clay in my mouth. I then saw by their clean-shaved chins that they were men in the disguise of women's apparel. While prostrate I saw the other man raise a knife and aim a savage blow at my right breast. The knife struck the steel rib of my corset, and glanced off. Without uttering a word he again made a stab which I caught in my left hand. I remember seeing him raise his hand to strike again, which I received in my right hand. I also remember hearing the noise of a cart in the road, and seeing my dog fly at the men. Then I swooned. I came to my senses half an hour afterward, and found myself lying in the same spot where I fell. I got up and walked back to the house and told my husband and brother of the terrible outrage. They immediately dispatched for Windsor to lay the account before the authorities." To the noble animal of St. Bernard breed, Lady Florence Dixie attributes her

MARVELLOUS ESCAPE FROM THE ASSASSIN'S KNIFE.

It is presumed the dog followed the would-be murderers for some distance, as it returned to the house after the arrival of Lady Florence. The queen has requested that a painting of the dog be done for her. Detectives have taken the corset worn by Lady Florence, who has suffered no injury beyond a slight scratch from one of the stabs, which, after glancing on the corset, just penetrated her chemise,—and some cuts on the palms of both hands. Your correspondent questioned Lady Florence as to the motive of the crime. She said: "The whole affair is most mysterious. I can ascribe the motive to no one. My sympathies for the Irish people have been openly avowed, and are well known." It was assumed that the attack would be laid at the door of the Irish,—an assumption which she warmly repudiated, adding: "In these days every crime must be of Irish origin." Your correspondent afterward inspected the scene of the outrage. A dank road extends about 300 yards from the house, in the direction of Windsor, having for its boundaries the river on one side and the Windsor road on the other. Being very thinly wooded, the river is plainly seen from the roadway. The fisheries enjoy some renown from the fact of having been occupied successively by

ALL THE ENGLISH GEORGES.

Visitors in an uninterrupted string called and left their cards all day. I may add that the daring and boldness of the attack is more extraordinary when one reflects that it was committed close to a busy highway, in open day, and within sight of the towers of Windsor. Following so closely on the heels of the explosion this night occurrence has naturally intensified the current of anti-Irish feeling, for it need hardly be said its rules of procedure are reversed and the Irish party adjudged guilty in both instances until it shall demonstrate its innocence. I conversed a few minutes to-day on the subject with leading Irish members of parliament, who said that unless the real offenders are caught it will be impossible to convince the majority of the English that every land leaguer would not be glad to hear of Lady Dixie's death, because she persistently

QUESTIONED EGAN'S HONESTY,

And fired off in various magazines and newspapers ammunition prepared for her by Rich'd Pigott. The outrage is remarkable in many respects. If the men desired to murder Lady Dixie they might easily have done so when she fainted, and if she were unable to make an outcry the dog ought to have done so. There are many mysterious features in the affair, and it is quite possible that the attack was planned by those who are trying to bring the league into disfavor. For my part I cannot believe that any Irishman deserving the name would try to injure Lady Dixie. Her mother is an old and out nationalist, and that act alone apart from the regard due the gentle sex, would guard the daughter of the dowager marchioness of Queensbury from insult or violence. Nearly all the journals have interviews with well known Irishmen on the subjects of the late explosion and the attempt on the life of Lady Dixie. Of course there is no one who pretends to know anything of the subject matter but expresses the belief that no Irishman had anything to do with the matter concerned.

True Irishmen will Pause.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The Herald says editorially: All Irish Americans of decent feeling will give heed to the dangerous signs of the times. By seeming to sympathize with the perpetrators of dastardly crimes they are losing the sympathy of the world, and by supplying money for agitation, which has become nothing but a cloak for outrages, they are causing Ireland to be viewed by the universe as a haven for cowardly ruffians, who shoot from behind hedges and assault women in disguise. They are postponing for a century their country's chance of freedom, and are bringing their countrymen within measurable distance of a calamity more appalling than any which has happened since the Huguenots were pounded to death in the streets of Paris.

Lady Florence Dixie a Crank.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Michael D. Gallagher, president of the Parnell Land League of this city, last night said the [illegible] seemed to have been misinformed respecting the attack on Lady Florence Dixie. "She is a fraud," he said, "and his agitation is all got up by the British government. The land league knows nothing about this. Its plans are to have entirely peaceable agitation. Lady Dixie is regarded by the league as a sort of crank. She keeps repeating a lot of false tales about the league that certainly are not very pleasant to its members. Her statements have all been answered thoroughly. I suppose, however, that Lady Dixie may believe them herself."

Should be Ferreted Out.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The World says: It concerns every Irishman, and for that matter every Irish woman, on both sides of the Atlantic to contribute in every possible way to the discovery and punishment of the cowardly scoundrels who, having disguised themselves as women, yesterday attacked Lady Florence Dixie at Windsor, and but for the fidelity of a more respectable brute on four legs, would probably have murdered her.

They Spoke No Brogue.

LONDON, March 19.—Lady Florence Dixie, who was attacked Saturday by two men disguised in women's clothes, says the men spoke no brogue. She remembers seeing her St. Bernard dog drag one of them backward.

Don't Believe Lady Dixie.

LONDON, March 19.—Irish members of parliament discredit the story of Lady Florence Dixie that she was attacked by masked men.

Evidently Stunned.

LONDON, March 19.—Lady Dixie says her head is confused and painful, and she supposes the miscreants stunned her.

Fight with Arabs.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 19.—A band of Arabs attacked four Ottoman battalions near Yemen. The Turks lost three officers and a number of soldiers were killed and wounded. The Arabs were repulsed.

Protests that She is Innocent.

WALLINGFORD, Conn., March 19.—Emeline Meaker, to be hanged the 30th at Windsor for the murder of little Alice Meaker, has written to her husband and daughter to visit her before she is murdered for that which she is innocent of, and asking that her body be buried at home. [illegible] Mrs. Meaker also wrote her son Almon and the officers that they will repent on their dying bed for her cruel murder.

Hanged by a Vigilance Committee.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Helena, Montana, special: Friday night the barn, 166 sacks of oats, hay, grain, etc., of B. F. McNally, 22 miles from Helena, was burned. A vigilance committee traced the crime to two men named Cooney and Smith. They were hanged by the committee Sunday night, and the bodies were brought to Helena this evening. Cooney was an old Alder Gulch man, and at the time of his death kept the Eleven Mile House. Smith was a discharged [illegible] hand.

CAPITAL CLICKS.

Commander McAlen, of the Wrecked Ashuelot, to be Tried by Court Martial.

News and Gossip Concerning the Actions of Many of America's Great Men.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The report of Admiral Clitz, commanding the U. S. naval forces on the Asiatic station, details the circumstances attending the loss of the U. S. steamer Ashuelot, by which several lives were lost. It has been received by the secretary of the navy. The report has not been made public, but it is of such a character that Secretary Chandler has ordered a court martial to try Commander Horace E. Mullan, who was in command of the Ashuelot when wrecked. Captains Wm. P. McCann and Jos. N. Miller, the former as president of the court, and Master Samuel Clemy as judge advocate, have been ordered to proceed to San Francisco and take passage for Yokohama by the steamer sailing the 20th inst.

How Dorsey and Brady Stand.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—If the government is successful in securing a favorable ruling in the pending question in the star route case the effect must be to materially prolong the trial. The question is whether the government can cross-examine as to substantive matters in a case to which no reference is made in direct examination. This is the issue to prove the drafts, and the appearance of Brady on the stand complicated Dorsey's case. It tends to confirm the report that Brady and Dorsey are fully united in the defense, and Brady is disposed to assert the doctrine of sauve qui peut. Dorsey has no background of official discretion to fall back on, and his position is rather a critical one. So long as both were in Brady's aid off the stand they supported each other. Now, however, Brady has recognized the increased gravity of the situation, as compared with the last trial, by going on the stand, and for Dorsey to remain off will be a much more conspicuous course than before. Mr. Davidge, one of Dorsey's counsel, when asked the other day if Dorsey would take the stand, made the diplomatic answer, "I cannot say." Dorsey is worse off than Brady, in having to confront a good many ugly questions as to Rerdell's charges against him, of numerous forgeries, etc., also as to his request, shown by his own letter, while senator, to postmasters to swear falsely.

That's the Way the Money Goes.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The week after congress adjourns always sees a brisk trade in public documents. Piles of them are being heaped up in second hand stores. When congress draws to an end the members find out how they stand on the book at document room, and take good care that their credit is exhausted before their term of official life has ended. Many of these books are rubbish, and many of them are documents of considerable value. The business is vast in its proportions, as will readily be understood if we reflect that congress orders $2,000,000 worth of printing done annually, and the middle man who stands between the self-appointed almoners of this country and the reading public reaps a rich harvest.

Contributions Received.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Among the subscriptions received recently by Treasurer Gilfillan for the Garfield memorial hospital are the following: King George, of Tongres, through Dr. Canisnia, United States consul at the Samoan Islands $20; H. C. Marston, United States consul at Malaga, Spain, $144; Hugh H. Hamilton United States vice-consul at Teneriffe, $280.

Counterfeiters Increasing.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Brookes, chief of the secret service, says that the number of counterfeiters has greatly increased since resumption, as counterfeiting metallic currency requires less skill. He does not think, however, that the total amount of counterfeit money is any greater.

Folger Leaves Town.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Secretary Folger left the city very quietly Saturday afternoon. From the fact that his departure was not known till morning it is believed that he embarked on a revenue cutter for a short voyage.

To Protect Yellowstone Park.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Secretary Teller has requested the secretary of war for a military guard for the protection of the Yellowstone Park property. Secretary Lincoln has promised to comply with the request.

Germany Sends Aid.

The president has received a letter from Berlin inclosing a contribution of 10,000 marks from a number of prominent bankers of that city for the flood sufferers of this country.

Abandons the Trip.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—It is stated that the president has abandoned his proposed trip to Fortress Monroe, and will instead move to the Soldiers' Home.

THE PRIZE RING.

A Pennsylvania Prize Fight.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., March 19.—A double prize fight took place here last night. The participants were named Gallagher and William and Michael Mannion, brothers. Michael Mannion insulted the sister of Daniel Gallagher while the latter was protecting an aged man from an attack of young hoodlums. Mannion and Gallagher agreed to settle the difficulty in the prize ring. The pugilists repaired to a field and the Marquis of Queensbury rules governed. First blood was claimed for Gallagher, who planted a stinging right hander under Mannion's left eye, leaving a ghastly cut. Gallagher knocked Mannion off his feet every round. In the fifth round Gallagher struck his opponent on the nose, splitting that organ in a shocking manner. When time was called for the sixth round Mannion failed to respond, and Gallagher was awarded the honor of the fight. William Mannion, seeing his brother beaten and severely punished and claiming Gallagher too exhausted to again fight, challenged him to an immediate battle. Gallagher, though much exhausted, accepted the challenge and invited him to step into the ring. Mannion No. 2 was seen to grasp with his brother after several rounds, in which he was badly cut up. Patrick Nolan, the man who seconded the Mannions, then challenged Gallagher. The latter consented to fight him, but after Nolan had undressed, he wisely concluded to withdraw and donned his clothes.

FIRES.

Boston's Blaze.

BOSTON, March 17.—A fire this morning burned from 381 to 387 Washington street. Loss on stock and fixtures, $50,000. Loss on the buildings, $100,000; insured.

Distillery Destroyed.

HAMILTON, Ohio, March 19.—Fire this afternoon destroyed the distillery of the Miami company. Loss, $75,000 to $100,000; well insured.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

Mysterious Murder.

BOSTON, March 19.—In Watertown, Mrs. Carleton was murdered in the hallway of her own house last night. The doorbell rang and Mrs. Carleton answered. ST. JOHN, March 19.—Wallace Ross issues a challenge to Hanlan, offering to row a four or five mile race for $1000.

"MY GERALDINE."

A crowded house greeted the uprising of the curtain last night at the New Market theater, and it is greatly to be regretted that the management did not put on "My Geraldine" as the opening piece of the Palmer-Fort troupe's engagement. It would have made a difference of several hundred dollars in their favor, to the best of our belief. The play is certainly equal to the best Irish dramas on the stage and worthy to rank with Arrah-na-Pogue. The story is of a man who is the rightful heir to a large estate, of which he obtains possession by suppressing a will, through the connivance of a rascally steward. The rightful heir died and really had been secretly married to a young girl named Mary Carroll, by whom he had a daughter named Geraldine. After her father's death the little girl is sent to France to be educated and the mother enters a convent. She comes back to Ireland a grown woman and falls in love with the son of her wicked uncle. The latter, struck with remorse for his wicked acts, consents to his son's marriage with Geraldine, hoping to make restitution without exposing his own guilt. The girl's grandfather, Philip Carroll, refuses to allow her to marry young Arden and the girl is nearly crazy with grief. The wicked steward expects the secret of the girl's birth [illegible] a fit of despair to steward and [illegible] days, but as the steward is prevented by the entrance of [illegible] vindication of Mary Carroll's honor.

VALLEY WHEAT.

Reports from Every Grain-Growing County West of the Mountains.

Seed Supplied and Sowed in nearly Every Frozen Field.

The Acreage and the Yield will probably be Equal to Last Year.

Last week the Oregon and California railroad sent to its agents on the east and west side road, and the Oregon Railway and Navigation company to its agents on the narrow gauge division, the following circular soliciting information regarding the wheat crop:

What proportion of the fall sown wheat in your vicinity was killed or damaged by frost?

What is the acreage of the fall sown wheat which remains uninjured?

What proportion of the killed or damaged districts have been or will be resown with spring wheat?

What is the prospect for the farmers being able to secure sufficient seed?

How does the fall acreage, including the spring sown districts compare with last year?

With ordinarily favorable weather from this time on, what is the general opinion as to prospective yield this season compared with last?

An epitome of the answers is given below. It will be seen that the crops in the Umpqua valley suffered less than those of the Willamette. Reports from several small stations, which were exact repetitions of others in the same neighborhood, are omitted:

CLACKAMAS COUNTY.

Milwaukie, March 16.—Nearly all the wheat was killed but most of it has been resown. The general opinion is that the crop will be as good as last year.

Canby, March 16.—All wheat was frozen out. All fields have been or will be resown with spring wheat, seed having been secured in this neighborhood. Prospects at this writing are as good as ever known this season of the year.

Barlow, March 16.—All frozen fields and many more in addition will be resowed with spring grain, and the prospects are good. I estimate that the yield will be 25 per cent greater than last year.

Oregon City, March 17.—All wheat killed. No difficulty in securing seed wheat and all farmers are supplied. The acreage is about the same as last year and the yield will at least be as large.

MARION.

Woodburn, March 17.—All wheat killed. Farmers have all the seed wheat they want and with a continuation of the favorable weather the yield will be as good as last year.

Marion, March 17.—All wheat was killed. Almost all the farmers in this section have secured seed wheat from the grain warehouse at this place and they are still hauling. With good weather, the acreage will be as large as last year.

Turner, March 17.—All wheat killed. Farmers can get all the seed wheat they want, and more acres will be sown this year than last. The opinion prevails that the crop will be heavier and the wheat cleaner than last year. The past three weeks has enabled farmers to resow all the ground that was frozen out and those on mill creek bottoms to put in their usual amount of spring wheat, while those on the hills east and west of us complain that the ground is too dry to plow to advantage, but will get it all in.

Gervais, March 17.—All wheat killed. Plenty of seed wheat in this neighborhood to resow all fields and acreage will be larger than last year. Farmers say with present outlook and condition of ground, the yield will be far ahead of last year.

Silverton, March 17.—All winter wheat is killed. Farmers have secured all the seed wheat needed and the acreage is greater than last year. The yield will probably be larger than last season.

West Stayton, March 15.—Nearly all the fall sown wheat froze out. All has been resown or will be. Most of the farmers in this neighborhood have secured seed. Fully as much grain is sowed as last year and probably more. With favorable weather from this time on we will have a larger harvest than last year.

Salem, March 17.—All winter wheat is killed or damaged, so that it will not make half a crop. From present indications all damaged fields will be reseeded. Most farmers have already secured their seed. We think the acreage will be equal to last year. Farmers are hopeful and think, with favorable weather, that a good yield will be obtained, as the freezing much improved the condition of the land.

LINN.

Tangent, March 17.—All fall-sown wheat is killed. All will be resown with spring wheat. All are supplied with seed. Acreage is as large as last year. Prospects better than ever. Farmers are getting along well with their sowing and the soil works better than ever before.

Lebanon, March 17.—All wheat killed. All fields have been resown with spring wheat except small part, which will be sown in flax and oats. I think the acreage will exceed last year's. Farmers are in good spirits as the frost has killed a large part of the wild oats, sorrel, cheat, and weeds of all kinds and left the soil light and loose as an ash bed, which will perhaps overbalance all other losses.

Albany, March 17.—Ninety per cent of the wheat was killed. All will be resown. Enough seed wheat has been secured for resowing. The acreage will be greater than last year. Prospects are good as land is in splendid condition.

Halsey, March 17.—Very little wheat saved. A great portion is already resown and the remainder will be soon. Good judges say that we will have one-third more wheat this year than last.

LANE.

Goshen, March 17.—All wheat killed. Enough seed wheat has been secured and the acreage will be equal to last year. Prospects are good.

Latham, March 17.—Same report as from Goshen.

Creswell, March 17.—Farmers have nearly all procured seed. Full acreage sown or to be sown will be about the same as last year. Land is in better order than I ever saw before.

Eugene, March 17.—Fall grain nearly a total loss. There is plenty of seed wheat and all fields will be resown. The ground is in splendid condition for growing crops, and barring unforeseen events, we will have a prosperous year.

DOUGLAS.

Wilbur, March 13.—Four-fifths of the fall-sown wheat was killed. More than two-thirds of the damaged fields will be resown. The acreage will be nearly equal to last year.

Roseburg, March 15.—All wheat sown early is killed; that sown later is uninjured; so that about one-half of the fall wheat is killed. The area destroyed will be resown with spring wheat or oats. It is believed by the oldest and best farmers that with reasonably favorable weather the yield will be better than last year. The ground was never in as fine a condition as now.

Myrtle Creek, March 16.—About 60 per cent of the fall wheat was killed. Three-fourths will be resown. Nearly all farmers have secured sufficient seed. With favorable weather there will probably be a better crop than last year.

WASHINGTON.

Dilly, March 17.—All the winter wheat was killed. Farmers are busy seeding and there will be some fields sown to wheat that were intended for summer fallow, the farmers claiming that the freeze is as good as the former for the land. Some have bought California seed, while others paid as high as $1 25 per bushel for choice spring wheat at a public sale yesterday. Farmers though somewhat disgusted and complaining, are determined to have the usual number of acres for the coming harvest.

Gaston, March 17.—All wheat killed. Nearly all will be resown. The general opinion is that the yield will be as large if not larger than last year.

Forest Grove, March 17.—All wheat killed. Nearly all will be able to secure seed wheat, and the acreage will be nearly equal to last year. The general opinion among farmers is that with an average season the yield will be better than for many years past, as the soil is in excellent condition.

YAMHILL.

McMinnville, March 17.—All but ten acres in this neighborhood have been killed. Nearly all will be resown with wheat, remainder with oats. Farmers will be able to secure seed wheat, and the acreage will be a slight increase over last year. With favorable weather, the yield will be as large as last year, but only a small proportion will be winter wheat. The weather is delightful for putting in spring wheat. The ground is in fine working order, enabling farmers to get grain in early. The information is based on the statements of fifteen of the best farmers in this vicinity, who came in to-day for seed wheat.

Amity, March 17.—Ninety-five per cent of the fall wheat was killed. All the damaged district will be resown this spring. Farmers have all the seed they want. Prospects are good all things considered. The ground is working fine, and farmers are hopeful.

Sheridan, March 17.—About 90 per cent of the winter wheat killed. All the damaged district has been resowed. The acreage is larger than last year. The general opinion is the yield will not be as great as last year. It was supposed that frost had killed the wild oats. Such, however, has not proved correct; from present appearances the wild oats have not been injured.

Dayton, March 17.—All damaged, and about 90 per cent killed. About 10 per cent. will not be resown and will yield probably three-quarters of an average crop. With good weather all the ground will be resown. Sufficient seed has been secured. The resowed district is likely to exceed any previous year. A large yield is generally expected, because the ground is in unusually fine condition.

POLK.

Derry, March 16.—All winter wheat killed. Nearly all will be able to secure seed. With regard to this season's yield, opinions differ, some holding that we will have a full crop, while others say the fall wheat will yield 50 per cent. Wild oats are growing very thick, and they may lessen the yield.

Monmouth, March 17.—About nine-tenths of the wheat is killed, and the remainder badly damaged. Only a few farmers are not provided with seed. The acreage will be about the same as last year, and the yield about the same. The ground is in fine condition for working, some wild oats killed, but not in proportion to the wheat. Wild oats are coming up very thick, and may choke out the wheat.

BENTON.

Corvallis, March 17.—All wheat killed. Nearly all will be resown. All applications for seed wheat have been met. Acreage will exceed last year's. Seed from the California mills is very good, the yield will be greater than last year.

Parker, March 17.—All wheat killed. Seed wheat is being secured. With my experience of fifty years in this state, I am of the opinion that, with fine land in good condition, and the quality sown, crops will be very good and the yield larger than last year.

THE LAND GRANT POLICY.

The country was anxious enough to get the railroads, but is now disposed to grumble about the land grants. How much land each railroad company has received is set forth in a recent pamphlet published in New York; and accompanying it is a map so designed as to impress the beholder with the largest possible sense of the magnitude of these aggregate land subsidies. The black zones on the map which indicate the several grants are drawn far out of proportion to the scale of the map, and then it is assumed that all the land within each zone has been appropriated by the railways, when in fact only alternate sections have been so taken. Moreover, there are many grants which extend over portions of the country where the lands had mostly been occupied before the grants were made, and where the railroads in consequence have obtained very little land. For illustration, the Willamette valley is down on the map as wholly appropriated by the railroads running through it; and not more than one-fifth part of Washington territory is outside the black zones.

The railroads have obtained land enough and in many cases more than enough; but there is no point whatever either in losing sight of the circumstances under which the lands were given or in exaggerating the extent of the grants. Nor is there candor or good sense in pretending that the results have not been on the whole highly advantageous to the country. It is particularly uncandid to parade the present value of the lands, which value has been almost wholly created or conferred by the railroads, as proof that the policy was all wrong and that the people have been "robbed of an imperial domain." The truth is, the people were anxious to get the railroads even at the sacrifice of large bodies of the public lands and they would still be anxious to pursue the same policy, and would pursue it still under similar circumstances.

Again, by most eastern writers the subject is treated as if all the lands were of the best quality and highest value. Take, however, the grant to the Northern Pacific, which, on the whole, contains more good land than any other of the large grants. To say that more than [illegible] of the land in this grant has any [illegible] value, or will have a permanent value, [illegible] show no judgment in the observer who [illegible] such statement. The larger part [illegible] this best of railroad grants [illegible] forever unavailable. Take out [illegible], rocky and sterile tracts and [illegible] what still remain.

But even if the lands were all good the policy [illegible] a bad one, because the roads, [illegible] grants, would not have been constructed for an indefinite period; and however [illegible] might be, few persons would or [illegible] till railway transportation [illegible]. Still, it is not pretended [illegible] has not been attended by disadvantages. [illegible] localities lands have long [illegible] no roads have been built, [illegible] upon many settlers, and [illegible] and has checked the natural [illegible] sections. In these cases, [illegible] has been made or is likely [illegible] the roads, the grants [illegible] by the government. This [illegible] people, and certainly no [illegible] companies.

[illegible] there are reasons why the [illegible] of vast areas of lands by corporations [illegible] regretted. But the time was [illegible] people did not think it an unwise [illegible] these lands to induce the construction of the railroads; and the parties most [illegible] the question put to them now, [illegible] let the grants stand rather [illegible] the inconveniences of their [illegible].

HANGING FOR MURDER.

[illegible] policy, as applied to murderers, [illegible] Maine. The legislature has re[illegible] punishment, which was done [illegible] years ago as a relic of barbar[ism] [illegible] not yet approved by the [illegible] admission, that crimes of vio[lence] [illegible] belief of the representatives [illegible] of Maine, been more frequent [illegible] abolished than before; and, [illegible] that society is not as safe as it [illegible] murderer exchanged the prospect [illegible] death for, as worst, a com[illegible] for life. Many deeds of shock[ing] [illegible] have occurred in Maine during [illegible]. No one can say that they [illegible] had the prospective [illegible] more terrible. Hot blood [illegible] the cost, but some of the [illegible] crimes were accomplished with [illegible] that leads one to think [illegible] would not have been attempted had [illegible] of the commonwealth been [illegible] consideration, provided all else [illegible]. What is there to impress with whole[some] [illegible] the brutal wretches that infest soci[ety] [illegible] of wearing warm clothes [illegible] comfortable food for the [illegible] natural days? The influence [illegible] of these reflections has [illegible] the law-makers of Maine is shown in [illegible]. It requires more nerve to estab[lish] [illegible] killing men than to abolish such [illegible]. Responsibility in the latter event [illegible] and indirect that it is not apt to [illegible] immediately felt. The quality of [illegible] pleaded in extenuation, even [illegible] mercy to violent characters at the [illegible] society in general. But to re-estab[lish] [illegible] sanctions killing. That must [illegible] when the interests of society en[illegible] and unequivocally demand it. Such [illegible] seems to have been reached in [illegible].

The plan proposed by Mr. C. P. Church for [illegible] the bars of the river by water [illegible] through a battery of powerful pipes [illegible] the sand and mud of the river bottom [illegible] might be made a powerful auxiliary to removal of the obstructions. Where logs are buried up in the channel it would soon uncover them, and thus would play an important part in the work. Where these logs lie the dredges cannot work or, at least are liable every moment to be broken. Great trees coming down from the upper Willamette have caught by the roots in the shoal places, and have become wholly embedded in the mud and sand. They constitute the chief obstacle to improvement of the navigation of the river. It might be well for those who have the matter in hand to make a study of Mr. Church's suggestion.

Minnesota is rolling the ball. Her legislature has passed an act which raises the license fee for retailing liquors from the present minimum of $25 a quarter to a minimum of $200, and from the present maximum of $100 to a maximum of $500, with a proviso that it shall not be less than $100 a quarter in cities having a population of 20,000 or more. On all sides increase of license fees is being accepted as the practical method of dealing with the liquor question.

Of the steamships lost last year, 16 were American and 192 British. The good luck of American steamships was due to a simple cause; to wit: there were few to lose; just as the remarkably good health and exceedingly few deaths noted on the Pacific slope thirty years ago were due chiefly to the fact that there were few persons here to sicken and die.

Some of Mr. Gladstone's friends are urging him to transfer himself to the house of lords where his work would be less exacting. Naturally he hesitates; for no man cares to be buried alive, especially a man of so brilliant and active an intellect as that of Mr. Gladstone.

THE ABUSE IN NEW YORK.

It is astonishing to note with what rapidity drinking saloons increase in all our cities. They multiply at a rate which indicates a rapidly growing demoralization; and it is a law of their existence that many classes of crimes increase in proportion to their multiplication. In the city of New York, as the Herald has recently shown, there are over 10,000 drinking houses, or one to every 125 inhabitants. There is a board of excise commissioners who issue licenses to sell liquors, and the law requires that no license shall be granted unless the applicant be of good moral character and has sufficient ability to keep an inn. There are only 1000 licensed hotels, so that 1000 are maintained in violation of law. There are 430 hotels of all grades; 572 places where ale and beer only are sold, and 534 shops, drug stores and other places where liquors can be had. The liquor saloons outnumber the shops of butchers, bakers and grocers combined. It is only "a pennyworth of bread to an intolerable deal of sack." In other words, there are more rum shops in the city than food shops by 2719.

The license system has been unquestionably abused, since there can be no legitimate demand for so many public houses as the above figures indicate. In some parts of the metropolis there are more saloons than all other business places combined, and on some blocks more than half the houses are used for retailing intoxicating drinks. While all who hold licenses are presumably of "good moral character," the statistics of crime show conclusively enough that the business is demoralizing. The arrests for crime in one year numbered 67,135. Of these, 20,22[illegible] were for intoxication, and 22,384 were for offenses of various grades committed under the influence or "inspiration" of intoxicants. Thus 63 per cent. of the total number of arrests were chargeable directly to the liquor traffic. It is not supposed that the sale and consumption of liquors can be wholly stopped and this most fruitful source of crime cut off; but there is no reason why, with proper increase of license fees, the number of places at which liquors are sold—particularly those places which have no scruples about selling to men who are already drunk—may not be diminished. That this would be a great gain no one can doubt.

A movement has been started in the metropolis, having for its object the restriction of the number of licenses to be issued and the increase of the license fee. A powerful organization has been formed for this purpose. It is also making an effort to suppress the illicit saloons, enforce the Sunday liquor law, and press all upon the excise commissioners to reduce the number of licenses in those parts of the city where the number of saloons is notoriously in excess of any natural demand. The society has thus far met with strong encouragement, and has the support of all the respectable public organs.

Ben. Butler is gaining a little credit abroad but having a hard time at home. The Massachusetts papers almost without exception, treat him as a blatherskite. Here is a sample paragraph from the Springfield Republican: "Gov. Butler, who 'bowed' at North Easton about his readiness to 'devote every hour, every thought, every energy, every exertion, every quality of mind that I possess' to the commonwealth, has spent six days this week at Washington, partly as an attorney before the secretary of the treasury in behalf of an illicit distiller of whisky who has been caught by the revenue officers. Since his inauguration he has had law business twice at Washington, once or more in Rhode Island, to say nothing of New Hampshire and New York. He has also sent in a veto message, which able lawyers say is totally mistaken in its view of the law. As the veto message was dated and delivered February 26th, two days after Gov. Butler who had left the state, and when Lieut. Gov. Ames was acting governor, it is doubtful if it has any effect, and Richard Olney has advised his clients that they are already incorporated. 'Whenever the chair of the government shall be vacant by reason of his death, or absence from the commonwealth,' says the constitution, the lieutenant governor shall, 'during such vacancy,' perform the duties. The responsibility for the date, 'February 26th,' is thrown on the governor's clerk."

Mr. Henry Labouchere, M. P. is devoting some attention to the pensions of the peers. Among a long list which he quotes are those of the Dukes of Marlborough, Grafton and Richmond, which have been mainly brought up by the government at an expense of millions of pounds. The present Duke of Marlborough still receiving £4000 a year. The sovereign still pays £1200 a year to the Duke of St. Albans as hereditary Grand Falconer. The pension of the Earl of Cowper, as heir to the Earl of Bath, has been purchased for £113,000. The Duke of Leeds, who enjoyed a pension of £1 060 as one of the heirs of the Duke of Schomberg, gave up his right for £29,000. There are scores of smaller parliamentary grants ranging from £1000 to £10,000 yearly. Earl Nelson received £20,000 a year, to last as long as the title. For 26 years, till her death, the widow of Admiral Nelson received £2000 a year, and after the battle of Trafalgar, three of Nelson's sisters received £10,000, and the Wiltshire estate, now known as Trafalgar, was purchased for £60,000 by a vote of parliament. Commoners like Mr. Labouchere have a great work on hand if they are undertaking to abolish these pensions, unjust and unreasonable as they are.

New Jersey leads all the states in certain features of the reform business. Not only has she passed a law to proscribe special punishments for bank officials who are guilty of swindling but also has enacted that in civil suits a verdict agreed to by nine of the twelve jurymen shall be required as the decision of the whole number. This last is a shot aimed at the professional juryman, who makes his living by "hanging" juries "for a consideration," and it is believed will tend to discourage the industry in which he is engaged.

Cincinnati is putting on airs. The Chicago chamber of commerce having sent $2500 to the relief fund of the former city, the Parisians of America affect to consider it a very stingy donation from Chicago and propose to return the money. Chicago very calmly suggests that the proposed course be adopted, when the money can be distributed among other localities which seem to need aid more than Cincinnati does.

During the year 1882 nearly four and a half millions of passengers were carried by the railroads of this country for every passenger killed. This very justly creates the impression on the average mind that railway travel is very safe; but it is just as undesirable to the odd man at the end of four and a half millions as it would be if the chance fell on others more frequently.

The critics of congress must admit that it showed much forbearance. There were ten thousand bills before it that it did not pass.

Peter Hendricks, an old resident of Missoula, was killed on Wednesday of last week by a log falling on him from a wagon.

Missoulian: Quite a few ripples of quartz excitement have rolled over Missoula during the past week. Last Saturday a man brought down from Wallace district a specimen of quartz from the St. Lawrence lode, and some one broke off a piece from one corner, saying he thought it would assay $500. It turned out to be very rich in gold, the assays showing something over $373 in gold and $219 in silver. Several people were wild, until the whole piece was assayed and a much smaller result given out. It was somewhat of a surprise party to the owners of this lodge to discover that a Wallace district mine is carrying as much gold as silver, but such is the fact. This mine has a shaft 75 feet deep, which touches but one wall. An assay made on Thursday of two feet on the cross-cut at this depth, showed 81 ounces in gold and 68 ounces in silver, or an average of $150 per ton, which is good enough for anybody.

FISH COMPANY.

J. M. FRAZER, GEO. T. MESSKEE AND S. M. [illegible] have filed articles of incorporation with the proper officers of State and county incorporating the above named Company. One of the objects and pursuits set out in said articles is to build and operate Fish Traps, under a United States patent granted to James H. Frazer, January 2, 1883. At a meeting of the incorporators, held on 17th day of March, 1883, in the office of Johnson, McCown & Tanner, 103 First st., Portland, it was unanimously resolved that J. M. Frazer, one of the incorporators, open stock books and receive subscriptions of stock, not to exceed 400 shares of the value of $100 each.

Now, in pursuance of said resolution, passed by said incorporators, I have opened stock books and will receive subscriptions for said stock. The incorporators desire to expose to subscribers of stock that the [illegible] are subscribers, the only enough assessment to be made on stock to build one trap, until we can prove to your satisfaction that the trap will do what is represented. I am satisfied that all those who subscribe for the stock of the Company after they have seen and know the results of the catch of salmon by said traps will be well pleased with their investment and would not [illegible] with such stock.

Henry Kee, a carpenter and Columbia river trap builder, now in the employ of the Northwestern Trading Company in Alaska, one year ago examined my plan and model carefully, and said to me that he thought it was worthy of the plan I could use his name in recommendation. Capt. George [illegible], in the employ of the O. R. & N. Co., pronounces it a first-class method. Portland [illegible] and raised a fisher [illegible] saw similar plans used in Europe a great many years ago very successfully. Every stockholder will have an interest in the traps built with their subscription. All franchises and benefits arising from royalty or otherwise in Oregon and Washington Territory, which is my own and the opinion of others will be [illegible] has been thoroughly established to the company on the Columbia river and other streams within the above named territory.

The stock is in the reach of every man. The value of $50,000 placed on the territory named is a very low figure, and if it proves as successful as I know and others that ought to know think it will, will be worth five times the amount in a very short time.

Business men and others ought to encourage this enterprise. If successful it will grow from a small to a large enterprise.

Office of the Company at 67½ N. Front st., where subscriptions to stock will be received.

PETITIONING THE GOVERNOR.—Bacon and Carter, the two young hoodlums now serving a just three months' sentence in the county jail, are wild over the fine weather outside and are moving heaven and earth, so to speak, in the hope of regaining their liberty. Yesterday they wrote the following letter to Governor Moody, which was handed by Jailer Doherty. We give it verbatim, as it is a point of composition, and punctuation was something unknown in their grammar: "To His Ex. Henry Z. F. Moody Sir We two unfortunates are at present residenters of the Multnomah County jail and although justly confined we are under the impression the term of our imprisonment too long for the offence of a misdemeanor being sentenced for the term of 3 months by His Honor Judge Moreland and we have no hesitated to inform him which ought to be having made two overtures to him in writing letting him into the details of our position and praying him to alleviate our condition and pledging ourselves if liberated to leave the State for [illegible] on the Sound were we can get immediate employment and he sympathizing with our circumstances has referred us to you at the same time informing us the Pardoning power was out of his jurisdiction hoping yours Excellency that you will alleviate the condition of two unfortunates we remain ready to command." The assertion that Judge Moreland advised them to apply to the governor is incorrect and the law makes no provision for pardons in cases of misdemeanors. People who have suffered from the [illegible] of these young hoodlums do not care to see them let loose upon the community and the one to tell eyes their protestations.

SUBURBAN RAILWAYS.—Yesterday the county court granted the right of way to two street railways, to run dummy engines, connecting this city with Milton and East Portland with Sellwood. The first petition upon which the court passed was that of [illegible] Field and associates, asking for the right of way on the macadam road for a single track from the city to the Red House. The conditions upon which this petition was granted are as follows: It shall be constructed as ordinary street railways, with the privilege of using the track on the east side of the road as now graded. The track shall be on a level with the roadway. Either horses or dummy engines may be used as the motive power. Work upon this line shall be commenced within six months, one mile must be completed within a year from date, and the whole to be completed within eighteen months. The other application for right of way was from the Park railway company, who propose to construct a line from East Portland to Sellwood, the route of which has already been published in these columns. The conditions imposed upon this corporation are that one mile of said road shall be built within one year, and that it is to be completed to the town of Sellwood within two years; also, that where the county road is used, as good a road of the same width shall be made by the company at its own expense for the public use, and that said railway shall be restricted to one side of the road.

WIND AND WEATHER.—The barometer still the mains steady and the weathercock points to the northwest as steadily as if it were a fixture. There was a halo around the moon on Sunday night and for several nights quite a heavy dew, but these are no indications of rain, in fact rather the contrary. The barometer ever since the fine weather has been above 30 and until it falls there is slight hope for rain. As to whether rain is needed or not it is difficult to decide. Farmers on high land think it is, while those on low, moist land want a continuance of fine weather. A shower would be very welcome in the city at all events. It is but reasonable to expect rain soon, and plenty of it and every cloud is looked upon as a sign by those who forget that all signs fail in a dry time.

GAUGE CHANGED.—The O. R. & N. Co.'s portage between the Upper and Lower Cascades was changed Sunday from standard to narrow gauge, rolling stock formerly used on Blue mountain division has been brought down to the portage. There are two engines, two coaches—as finely fitted as any in the country—37 flats and 29 box cars. The engines were recently overhauled at The Dalles and changed to coal burners.

SERVED ALIKE.—A day or two since one Mrs. Nevels made complaint in Justice Keegan's court against Mike McCarthy, charging him with assault and battery. Michael was fined $10, and responded by having Mrs. Nevels arrested on a similar complaint, and the Justice fined her the same amount. They are now probably both happy, and the majesty of the law has been vindicated.

EASTER SERVICES.—The course of services during the present week at St. Stephens' chapel, corner of Jefferson and Fifth streets, will be as follows: Every morning at half-past 8, except on good Friday, when services are at 11, and every evening at 7. On Thursday evening a sermon by the chaplain. For Easter Sunday services will be announced toward the close of the week.

CONTRACT LET.—L. L. Hawkins, agent for Capt. J. C. Ainsworth, has let to F. W. Lewis the contract for rebuilding the store occupied by Corbitt & Macleay, destroyed by fire last January. The contract price is a trifle under $20,000. Work will commence this week and the building will be three stories high.

THE EAST SIDE.

Common Council.

The common council met in regular session last evening, President Myers in the chair and all members present, except Mays.

The following is the substance of the business transacted:

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES.

From F. H. West, asking permission to use one-half of the streets in front of his property on Fifth and M streets for building purposes. On motion of Sliker granted.

From F. A. Haynes, asking permission to grade Thirteenth street in front of lots 3 and 4, block 275; also to fill in front of same on K street. On motion of Crane, granted.

From the Hawthorne heirs and others remonstrating against the proposed improvement of Seventh street from V to Jefferson, in Stephen's addition. On motion of Sliker received and placed on file.

From S. Stafford, asking the privilege of constructing the approach from F street to the proposed elevated roadway on Fifth of plank instead of gravel, as specified in the plans. On motion of Crane, referred to the committee on streets.

From H. A. Hogue, asking permission to build a wharf in front of block 25, extending to deep water; also to use south half of G street and north half of F street, from the corners of said block to low water, for a roadway and approach to said wharf, upon such terms as the board might direct. On motion of Sliker, referred to the committee on landings and wharves.

From Elijah Williams, asking to be reimbursed in the sum of $16 50, being the amount overpaid on an erroneous assessment. On motion of Sliker referred to committee on judiciary to report at next meeting.

From twenty-six property owners on F street, asking the council to order the improvement of said street, from the centre line of Second street to the west line of Sixteenth street, by grading, laying a 24-foot roadway of gravel in the centre and laying sidewalks, crosswalks and plank gutters on both sides of said street. On motion of Sliker, the recorder was instructed to give the required notice in accordance with the petition.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

From the committee on streets and public property, recommending the adoption of the plans and specifications for the elevated railway on Third street. On motion of Sliker report adopted and plans approved.

From Denis Sullivan, asking permission to grade and lay sidewalk in front of his property, corner of Fourth street and Holladay avenue; on motion of Cunningham, granted.

From John Sommerville and 17 others, asking that the East Portland water company be required to extend its mains into Holladay's addition according with their franchise; on motion of Crane, referred to the committee on fire and water.

From C. L. Spore, asking permission to use one-half of J street, between First and Second, for building purposes, on motion of Cunningham, granted.

From J. M. Sliker, asking permission to grade one-half of street in front of the north half of block 265 in Aiken's addition; on motion of Sprague, granted.

From the committee on health and police, reporting that Paul Rokle was the lowest bidder for furnishing, lighting and extinguishing street lamps for six months, at $1 35 for each lamp, and recommending the contract be awarded him. On motion of Cunningham, report adopted and award made as recommended.

From the committee on streets, reporting they had received four bids for building the elevated roadway on Fifth street, as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| [illegible] E. Bennett | $4,080 |
| [illegible] L. Spore | 4,[illegible] |
| [illegible] N. Roop | [illegible] |
| Jas. Johnston | 5,[illegible] |

The committee had consequently awarded the contract to Mr. Bennett. On motion of Crane, report adopted and contract confirmed.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

From the city surveyor, submitting report of survey to locate the west line of [illegible] N [illegible] street to the centre of [illegible] street. On motion of Sprague, the report was adopted and the recorder instructed to give the required notice of [illegible] of the same.

From the city surveyor, reporting he had made the necessary surveys for the proposed elevated roadway on Third street, and submitting plans and specifications for the same.

From the city treasurer, reporting the amount of taxes collected on the tax roll, and over $800 remaining uncollected.

On motion of Cunningham, report received and treasurer allowed 30 days further time for the collection of taxes.

CLAIMS.

| Fred Schopp, [illegible] | [illegible] |
| Wm. Stiger, | [illegible] |
| R. Dakledge, | 12 00 |
| James Ward, | 12 00 |
| Vindicator, printing | 43 [illegible] |
| Hall & Stott, Merchandise | 12 75 |
| Lawrence Bros., hauling | 8 00 |
| L. C. Carmack, removing [illegible] | 2 00 |

On motion of Cunningham, all claims were ordered paid as read.

ORDINANCES.

Providing for time and manner of improving Third street, between J and L.

Amending an ordinance establishing the grades of certain streets. This proposes to raise the grade of G street as follows: At Thirteenth street, 1[illegible]3, at Fourteenth, 187, at Fifteenth, 190; at Sixteenth, 192 5[illegible]

The above two ordinances were read a first time, and on motion of Sprague, read a second and third time by title and passed.

Granting to H. A. Hogue permission to construct a wharf adjoining block 25, and to grade and plank so much of those portions of G and F streets as may be necessary for a convenient passage to and from said wharf. Read first time, and, on motion of Crane, referred to the committee on landings and wharves.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Sliker, of the committee of ways and means—That the city recorder be directed to have printed 50 copies of the revised city charter, also to revise and codify whatever existing ordinances he may deem necessary, and submit the same to the council for approval. On motion of Sprague, adopted.

By Sprague—That the street commissioner be instructed to repair C street from Water to First, by graveling where necessary; carried.

By Sprague—That the notice for the proposed improvement of G street be changed so as to read "from the east line of Second street to west line of the east line of Water."

Sprague moved to adopt, and Sliker amended to lay on the table till the next regular meeting.

It appeared the resolution was introduced in the interest of the railroad companies, and Cunningham and Sprague favored it for the reason it would necessitate the raising of the tracks several feet at an expense of $7000, for which they were not prepared at present, and Crane and Sliker opposed it for the reason that it was directly opposed to the wishes of the property owners who had petitioned for the improvement, who desired the street improved to the river.

The question being called, the amendment prevailed by the following vote: Ayes—Crane, Myers and Sliker. Nays—Cunningham and Sprague.

On motion, adjourned.

SMALLPOX INVESTIGATION.

The City Editors of the "Standard" and the "News" Testify in Regard to Interviews Held with Chief Lappeus.

The council committees on judiciary and health and police now engaged in taking testimony concerning the charges made against Chief of Police Lappeus by citizens of Walla Walla held another session last evening at the committee rooms. There was a light attendance exclusive of the reporters, and only two witnesses gave evidence. These were the city editors of the Standard and the News, the latter of whom had demanded an examination, alleging that he could make some startling revelations. His testimony, which is given in full, may be "startling" to him, but the public will fail to see any great revelation in his alleged interview with Lappeus. Following is the testimony:

Charles Whitehead sworn—Age 37; journalist by occupation; on the 21st of January, in the afternoon, I called on Chief Lappeus at his residence; he was in bed suffering from some ailment; I asked him if he knew anything concerning a man who had arrived on the steamer Oregon sometime before, and whether he knew that it was the same man whom the Walla Walla papers are making up such a noise about. He said the man came to him from Dr. Wells, but his name was not Thompson, as near as he could recollect, referring to the man by that name who had died at Walla Walla, and about whom the papers up there were talking; said he could not remember exactly the name the man gave him. It was either Hale or Vale. He examined the man and advised him to take a room in some remote portion of the city until he could decide what was the matter with him.

J. B. Fithian, sworn—Am 32 years of age; city editor of the Standard; on Tuesday January 30th, we got the Walla Walla papers containing account of a smallpox case in Walla Walla, in which Chief Lappeus was concerned; on that evening I called on the chief at his residence, and asked him if he had heard of any complaint that had been made against him; he asked in what respect, and I replied in any respect, smallpox or otherwise; he said he had not; I then handed him some slips cut from the Walla Walla papers, which charged that the smallpox case here had been allowed to pass through Portland; after reading he said he remembered of a man being brought to his office from Dr. Wells' office sometime before; he didn't know how long since it was said to him in his office that it was thought the man had smallpox; he said he didn't think he had smallpox at first glance; said he examined him closely, felt of his neck, head, hands, legs and chest for the usual symptoms of smallpox, and he said he was not satisfied that the man was afflicted with small pox, and he asked him some questions while he was going over him, as to his name, where he came from, and where he was going; the chief said he didn't remember what name the man gave, but it was his impression the man said his name was Allen; said he was from Texas or down south somewhere, and was going to the upper country; the man told the chief that he didn't feel well; that he was with a party going east of the mountains, and didn't wish to be detained, as he wanted to go with them; the chief said he saw nothing about the man to warrant him in arresting or detaining him, and had to let him go; I think that he said that he advised him to lay over a day or two and see what the developments would be; the man preferred to continue his journey; I then asked the chief if he was acquainted with the smallpox in its different forms; he said he thought he was; said he had handled a great many cases, taken care of people who were sick with it, and buried those who had died with it; I asked him if he would have permitted the case to have gone out of town had he known the man he had examined was afflicted with it; he said he would not.

There being no other witnesses, the committee adjourned till next Thursday night at 7:30.

THE BAKER CITY BRANCH.

Present State of the Work and Prospects of the Date for Junction with the Short Line.

The arrangements for the transfer of through traffic recently entered into by the Oregon Railway and Navigation company and the Oregon Short Line, has given an interest to the Baker City branch of the former organization second only to that felt in the completion of the Northern Pacific. To learn the present status of the work over the Blue mountains an OREGONIAN reporter yesterday called on H. B. Thielsen, assistant chief engineer of the company, and elicited the following information:

The line from Umatilla to Snake river, at the mouth of Burnt river canyon, is 223 miles long. Forty-four miles are in operation, and the track is laid to a point fifteen miles east of Pendleton. The contractors have graded about forty-five miles of the grade east of Pendleton, including the tunnel. The work of building and track-laying is progressing steadily. Between the present end of the track and Meacham's station at the summit, there will be fifteen Howe truss bridges, varying from 130 to 170 feet in length and much of the timber has to be shipped from Portland.

"Will the road be finished this year?" asked the reporter.

"I do not think that it will," replied Mr. Thielsen. "Only ninety-four miles are at present under contract. The Oregon Construction Company have the contract for grading from Pendleton to Grande Ronde, a distance of seventy-four miles, and for the Burnt river canyon, twenty miles. On the intervening space, through the Powder river and Grande Ronde valleys, a distance of thirty-five miles, no work has yet been done."

"Is the work over those eighty-five miles hard?"

"Part of it is. The divide between the valleys will be hard, but the remainder is comparatively light."

"Where will be the point of junction with the Short Line?"

"That has not yet been decided, and will not be until I have a conference with the engineer of their road. They have surveyed up the Snake river to a point opposite the mouth of Burnt river canyon, and began to haul timber for the Snake river bridge. For aught I know they may still be preparing timber."

"Will they bridge the Snake?"

"I don't know, and probably will not until we have a conference."

"Then you can't fix an approximate date for completion of the line?"

"No. We have not received special orders to push the work, but we are going ahead steadily. If necessary required, we might finish the line to Snake river this year, but the junction will probably not be made until the late spring or early summer of 1884."

POLICE COURT.

The contents of the dock at the police court yesterday, to one who believes that "the greatest study of mankind is man," would have proved an interesting collection. About a dozen victims of cheap license pleaded guilty to being drunk, and were each fined $10 for their efforts to support the association of cheap whisky sellers. Three of them looked as if they had been kicked in the eyes by government mules.

F. H. Tabor pleaded guilty to being drunk, with a broad grin at the idea of there being any doubt in the matter.

Thomas Gribble, for sleeping in a railroad car without the consent of the owner, was fined $10.

George House, a hackman, was charged with driving his horses faster than a walk on Ainsworth dock. He explained that he was obliged to rush his cattle to avoid being run over by a railroad train. Some trouble was experienced in getting him to stop explaining the matter, but as soon as Judge Moreland could get in a word, he remarked that there was no provision in the ordinance for a man who was in a hurry and after advising him to "wait till the train rolled by, Jennie," in future, fined him $5.

I. W. McGraw, a wild-eyed, bald-headed man, who was much too respectable looking to be up on the charge preferred against him—indecent exposure—when asked if he wanted an examination or would waive, replied, just as you like. Mr. Mulkey liked to have the case set down for to-day. McGraw was up some months since on a similar charge and was sent up to the circuit court where he was fined $30. He must be a little off mentally.

Harry Parker, accused of abusive language to Mrs. Mary Bell, made a very vigorous, but not very skillful defense. His case was taken under advisement.

HAMS.

This article of food has taken so strong a hold on the general public that the consumption has acquired enormous proportions all over the world. Germany is now trying to prohibit the importation of our American hams, under the pretext of their unsoundness, trichinae, etc., which is all bosh. But that some inferior articles are put up by some unscrupulous dealers may be the truth; but our first-class hams—as, for instance, the FW'S. Whittaker's Star Sugar-cured Hams, St. Louis, Mo.—which have gained a world-wide reputation for their soundness, sweetness, delicious and appetizing qualities should be also excluded, it certainly a great injustice. If Prince Bismarck would taste them once we are sure he would recall his threatened embargo. To guard against imposition, all genuine FW'S Whittaker's Star Hams are plainly branded on the skin side with the firm's name. Look before you buy. The genuine F. W. Whittaker's Star Hams can be found at McCraken & Mason's, 20 to 46 North Front street.

SITUATED ON THE EAST BANK OF THE WILLAMETTE River, about one-quarter mile distant from the city limits of Portland, and immediately below Swan Island. The most available river front north of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's works at Albina and therefore offers Advantages Second to None.

The situation of the land renders it specially desirable for all kinds of manufactories. As a site for suburban residences, for which, in due consideration of the rapid growth of Portland, there will be an extraordinary demand, it on account of its picturesque situation. The real value of either business or residence property is necessarily determined by its accessibility. Portsmouth can be reached by water in fifteen minutes by the St. Johns road in twenty minutes, and the eventual extension of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's Railroad to Portsmouth from Albina is another advantage possessed by no other tract around Portland.

Cannot be Surpassed,

The connection of Portland and Vancouver by rail is only a matter of time, and will materially add to the Accessibility of Portsmouth.

Also, the Northern Pacific Railroad to Kalama, running on the west bank of the Willamette river, and already in course of construction, can be Reached Easily by Ferry,

Which is provided by articles of incorporation of this company.

For the present, the fast steamer "Cleveland" has been chartered by the company, and will make two trips daily (Sundays included). Actual settlers can rest assured that a steamer will be put permanently on the route, and fares shall not exceed five cents each way.

The Title is Unquestionable.

Portsmouth is free of debt, and good and sufficient deeds will be given purchasers.

Lots and Blocks will be sold on the installment plan at reasonable prices, and a liberal reduction will be allowed for cash.

Keeping Pace with the Times!

A history of the FARMERS AND MECHANICS' STORE having already appeared in full in our catalogues, which found circulation all over the Northwest Coast, it is unnecessary to reiterate its trials and combats. We, like many others, began our career with a limited capital; though, unlike many others, we always pursued from the very beginning a liberal policy in our relations with our patrons. We were, like many others are to-day, compelled to be a vassal to the close-fisted San Francisco merchants; though, unlike those many others, we always gave our customers the full benefit of the fluctuations in the market. That our style of transacting business met with the approval of the people is self-evident, from the fact that our efforts have raised us to a level where competition is unable to reach us, and where we can, with perfect safety to ourselves and benefit to the public, make a still greater departure from the old traditional mode of doing business. The senior partner of the firm, Mr. Louis Fleagen, has just returned from an extended tour through the East, where he has effected arrangements with the largest manufacturers, that has placed us in a position to offer our goods at San Francisco wholesale rates. Our facilities for cheap transportation from the East are the same as the largest importer in San Francisco can boast of. In a word, we MANUFACTURE OUR OWN CLOTHING, purchase our DRY GOODS FROM FIRST HAND, and will sell them at WHOLESALE FIGURES. Our rates on Groceries will fluctuate with the rates on exchange, always giving the customer the benefit of a decline.

The ONE PRICE feature of our establishment is a recognized factor in our success, and we shall preserve it in all its stringency, inasmuch as we shall henceforth return change to the minimum amount of 1 cent.

What we are promising the people is not mere bombast set up in large type to attract the unwary, but is simply that which we purpose honestly to do. We are at any time prepared to redeem our promise to the strictest sense of the letter and substantiate any and all assertions.

We shall in the near future publish in these columns a list of prices, which will at once convince the public of our sincerity.

Our Price Current at the head of our column will show from day to day the fluctuations of staple Groceries.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

The Victim Still Paralyzed.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., March 19.—There is much talk here concerning a peculiar incident which occurred on Friday night in connection with Miss Emma Bond, the victim of last summer's outrage. Since her appearance before the grand jury she has been staying at the house of her uncle, Abner Bond, on the outskirts of the city. On the evening named, while the family were at supper, Etta Bond, sister of Emma, came out of the girls' bedroom, saying it was not necessary to send anyone in to stay with her while the family were eating, and that Emma was sitting propped up in bed reading by lamp light, and seemed to feel very comfortable, but after a few minutes Mrs. Abner Bond sent her little girl into the room, when she came running back, saying "O! mamma, the room is dark, and Emma is gone." Mrs. Bond screamed, and the family ran into the room to find the bed empty. They searched the house and yard and found the afflicted girl outside around an angle of the house lying on the ground partly unconscious. They carried the girl back to her room, and while doing so heard her rave of men with black masks on their faces. She has been in a semi-unconscious condition ever since. Among the suppositions rife is that of abduction, and some even hint at darker deeds. The accepted theory is that in a fit of temporary aberration of mind she wandered from her room to the yard where her strength failed her and she sank to the ground, still laboring under the hallucination, probably, of former hideous scenes. To contradict this is the fact that since her appearance before the grand jury last November she has never walked a step.

The Japanese are Pleased.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Magashichiroku Masakota, Jahitsai Mischineri, S. Nagasaki and K. Sugi of Yokohama, Japan, arrived here last evening and left to-day for San Francisco. This is the delegation sent by the Emperor of Japan to Hawaii to attend the coronation of King Kalakaua, from which ceremony the members present are returning to their native land. Having taken a glance at this country Nagasaki said in an interview, "We feel very friendly to the United States. We open our doors to the outside world. American merchants are doing well in Japan. Those employed in our government give great satisfaction. We copy from the United States and look up to her first."

"How about opening up the interior of your country," was asked.

"That will be done; everything is being done to liberalize, and the country will be opened to foreigners. Our visit will result in much good because we will report upon what we have seen, and by increasing commerce and trade the two countries will become more friendly to one another."

Mint Investigation.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Snowden, superintendent of the mint, was expected here last evening, on his way to New Orleans to make an investigation of matters relating to the breach in it at that city, but did not arrive. The board of assay commissioners, when it adjourned February 16, adopted the following resolution: "That the assay commission, having examined and tested the reserved coins of several mints for the year 1882, and it appearing that the coins are within the tolerance prescribed by law, except as to the reserve gold coin of the mint of New Orleans, this trial is considered and reported as satisfactory." This resolution furnishes the ground for the investigation.

Morse will Go West.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Salmi Morse says he has received proposals from Boston and Chicago to produce his Passion Play in those cities, and that he contemplates bringing it out in Louisville during the holding of the autumn exposition, in a pavilion built especially for that purpose, to seat several thousand persons. # FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

MONDAY, March 19.

The non-arrival of the Oregon has proved quite a disappointment to-day. She has a full cargo, part of which is needed at this time. Trade to-day has been fairly active, but of no special importance.

Wheat, freights and flour are without change. Foreign wheat advices are rather easier from England. New York is lower while Chicago shows a advance. There is no demand for spot vessels on this coast, and to secure charters ships must accept low rates.

Oats in rather larger receipt, but values show weakness.

Potatoes of best quality are wanted for seed. Ordinary lots plenty at last quoted rates.

Chickens in lessened demand and $5 50 is top price to-day.

Eggs in lighter receipts and all holders ask 25c to-day. There is no immediate prospect of any serious decline, for the consumption is unprecedented.

Weather warm and clear.

Receipts of produce past 24 hours have been 12 ctls wheat, 2450 bbls flour, 1150 sks oats, 42,840 lbs bran, 24,500 lbs millstuff, 256 sks potatoes, 1870 lbs wool, 280 lbs hides, 1050 doz eggs and 77 bxs fruit. Also 1090 bbls flour and 7350 lbs sides from the eastern section.

IN IDAHO.

Lewiston to Camas Prairie, Payette Lakes and Long Valley—Abundant Acres of Level Land.

A Descriptive Letter—Scenes and Reminiscences—Old Camps Revisited.

It was a lovely August evening, as we sat on the gleaming upper deck of a steamboat that was puffing away against the strong current of Snake river. Such a cool and pleasant evening was common enough in that section, but it was a delightful awakening to any one who had experienced the sultry August evenings of the eastern states. Looking upstream, something resembling a few fireflies is seen among the trees. The flashes multiply and enlarge, and presently we learn that we are coming up the

LANDING AT LEWISTON,

Idaho. The boat is soon tied up, and we are greeted by the noisy din of hotel runners and hackmen, who seem as glad to see us as though we brought letters of introduction to them.

Lewiston we found to be a very pretty town, located at the junction of the Clearwater river with the Snake. It is well supplied with good hotels and mercantile establishments. Shade trees and shrubbery abound, and are welcome to the eye, after gazing on the rocky walls of Snake river canyon.

A casual remark made at the supper table by one of our party in relation to our exploring trip, caused us to find several professional horse sellers after us next morning, and we were invited to come out and inspect the horses hitched up in front of the hotel. We did. Some of them looked well enough, others did not. One man called his an "A No. 1 saddle horse, half Spanish—an all-day horse, gentle and—"

"But," said one of our party of three, "we are going on a long trip, and want horses that will last several days. Besides, your horse looks as though he might 'buck.'"

Then ensued long stories about the animal's "bottom," how many miles he has carried this man and that man

TO CAMAS PRAIRIE,

Sixty miles away, and back the same day, etc., after which the owner extended a very cordial invitation to anyone of our party to mount and try the horse, assuring us he would do nothing. This generous offer was declined, and then the man mounted himself. Just as asserted the horse did nothing; absolutely nothing. Then he changed his mind and did several things all at once. When these things are all grouped they are called "bucking." The result was that the horse's stiff-legged jumps soon spilled his rider off in the sand, and the all-day horse tore off at a terrible rate—perhaps to make a round trip to Camas prairie. We finally bought five very good cayuses, and after loading two of them with our blankets and supplies, we left town late in the afternoon and camped a few miles out, intending to make a good, early start next morning. An early start is the most important part of a day's journey, and an outfit will very seldom get one from a town.

Before sunrise we had saddled up and packed up, and were on our way, enjoying that exhilarating feeling seldom felt by the dweller within city limits. To the left we could see the road which winds and curves for miles and miles up the steep hillside, and off toward the Palouse country. We ascend to an elevated plateau, and to our right we see the timbered sides and summit of Craig's mountain. We strike down

SOLDIER CANYON,

And coming to Lapwai creek, an abrupt turn to the right brings us to Fort Lapwai, and your first sight of the post is one of the prettiest views you can find in the whole country. It is naturally a pretty place, majestic cottonwoods bordering the crystal stream flowing by, and the soldiers of the 1st cavalry and the 21st infantry have done their share to make it prettier. Here we see a few Nez Perce Indians mounted on gaily-caparisoned horses. All the soldier boys who had to fight Chief Joseph's part of this tribe in 1877, will tell you these Indians are good fighters.

We pass a few Indian ranches, on some of which are small houses. This is good soil, and where the Indian cultivates it an excellent crop is the result. We are soon at the foot of the mountain and follow up the grade of the stage road. A stage station is passed, where the proprietor has made himself a most beautiful home, and we get a grand view of the country back toward Lewiston. Now we enter the timber and grand old pine timber it is. This range is a spur of the Blue mountains and, as in the latter, the timber is open and clear, with none of the vine maple and under brush which you find so annoying in traveling through the Cascade mountains. Wild timothy abounds everywhere through the timber, and looks beautifully fresh and green. Our surroundings are charming, indeed. For miles and miles we ride along through

THESE PLEASANT PINES

And make an early camp at Mason's prairie. Here we find what you seldom have any difficulty in finding anywhere in the Blue mountains—plenty of wood, water and grass. We bring the relish of mountain appetites to bear upon a mountain meal, and make most excellent beds by spreading our blankets upon fragrant fir boughs, cut for the purpose. At dusk our horses are picketed and we gather around our huge camp fire, enjoying it as we never did anything cooped up in a store. Bed time comes early in the mountains and the sweetest of sleep comes soon after,—unless you are short of blankets. Somebody has written "Dark's the hour 'fore the dawn." Perhaps it is. I never noticed it. But I have noticed that if a fellow ever freezes out in the mountains, it is generally about an hour before the dawn.

Our horses were on good grass. It adds greatly to a traveler's pleasure to know that his horse has been faring well. It did to ours. And with another early start we rode along the level mountain road. The same towering trees, the same picturesque openings, the same tall timothy growing rank and wild for miles and miles. There is no rough country in sight and the timber land is as clean as a well kept park.

Along in the afternoon we suddenly emerge from the timber, and there, spread out before us like a panorama, is Camas prairie. It is a beautiful prospect, and we halt on the hillside to drink it in. Close by is where Lieut. Rains and a party of ten soldiers and two citizen scouts were

KILLED BY THE NEZ PERCES

In '77. Further down, by the roadside, is the grave of Foster, one of these scouts. Like many others who have died for their country, his grave is unmarked. Away to the south you can see the snow peaks of the Seven Devils standing out against the smoky sky, and nearer still you see the head of White Bird canyon, down in which two companies of cavalry attacked the Nez Perces on the morning of June 17, '77. The soldiers suffered a terrible defeat, and lost 34 men. The timbered ridges of the White Bird mountains skirt the prairie on the east, and not far from their base you can see a lake glittering like a mirror in the summer sun, on the edge of which Chief Joseph had a recruiting station. Away to the north you can see the fortifications thrown up by both races on the bald buttes, and still further tower the rough peaks of the Coeur d'Alenes, over the highest of which runs the Lo Lo trail, the route taken by Chief Joseph in his retreat to Montana. Camas prairie was a dark and bloody ground in '77, and for several weeks the Indians contended for its possession. Looking down upon it this pleasant summer day, it is indeed a beautiful place, and the man with soul so dead, be he white or red, who never to himself hath said that it was a country worth fighting for, must be sadly lacking in patriotism.

We camp on Cottonwood creek, where we find an abundance of wild currants, and next day start across the prairie. We pass the Cottonwood house, a large hotel and stage station owned by L. P. Brown. This was formerly known as Norton's ranch, and a day long on the 4th of July, '77, the Indians and soldiers

FIERCELY FOUGHT

For its possession. The boys in blue held the fort, although outnumbered, and their hastily constructed earthworks still stand on the hills over the ranch. We pass over the many thrilling incidents of those days, and the unappreciated hardships endured by our soldiers, scouts and volunteers.

Occasionally we pass a new ranch, and see as fine and thrifty timothy and heavy grain as can be produced anywhere in the world. The soil is rich, and produces wonderfully. Thousands of acres lie vacant and unfenced, covered with wild grasses, and awaiting the settler. The main drawback is there is only a limited home market, and transportation facilities to reach other markets are lacking. But some time or other there will be a railroad to the outside world, and then the man who has taken up a ranch on Camas prairie will reap rich returns for his harvest. Wood and water are handy and there is no grubbing to be done on the land. Horses and cattle do well the year around, and we notice a few bands of sheep. These latter are wintered down along the warm Clearwater canyons.

Two towns, Grangeville and Mt. Idaho exist on the prairie, both of which have several stores and gristmills. Mt. Idaho is a very pretty place, located at the foot of the White Bird mountains. Here are several elegant residences which would be a credit to any city.

We have now ridden about 60 miles from Lewiston and had a good stage road all the way. Here the road ends, and we take a trail over the

WHITE BIRD MOUNTAINS.

It is a very good trail and some day will widen into a wagon road. We camped on a pretty prairie at the head of one prong of White Bird creek, and a short hunt results in bringing two fine deer into camp. The mountain appetite has taken possession of us, and the amount of meat we consume is simply astonishing. The immense rib roasts we devour as light lunches just before rolling into our blankets would give a dozen men the nightmare in a city. But here we have the digestion as well as the appetite of a sawmill, and our sleep as sweet and refreshing.

Two more short marches through the timber and we come to the old mining town of Florence, where a great deal of gold dust was dug out a few twenty years ago. There were several thousand men here then, and about forty of them remain in the graves on what is called Boot Hill, most of them dying with their boots on in cutting or shooting scrapes. Some half dozen white and perhaps a hundred China miners still stick to the camp. Some thirty buildings, which were once substantial structures, are fast decaying. This is a high altitude, and the snow falls to a great depth.

Seven miles beyond Florence we look down on Salmon river, shining like a stream of molten silver some feet below. Here we dismount and lead our horses down the zigzag trail. "Hike up the hills of lead down," is a good plan in the mountains. This is a long and tedious lead, but at last we reach the river bank and swim our horses across the

[illegible]

Here is a small orchard where very good apples are raised. No agricultural lands exist here, but some miles down the river there are several ranches on which hardy fruits and vegetables thrive well.

We take the trail towards Warren's, another mining camp forty miles to the east and a half dozen miles of zigzagging brings us to the top of the ridge. Along here we see thicker timber, and the spruce and black pines would furnish clear timber enough to supply all the public schools in the country.

Some eighteen miles from the raging river we come to the Warm Springs. Here Mr. Fred Dangdorf has a hotel and considerable improvements, including a large swimming tank and bath house. The water is hot enough to boil eggs, and is cooled to a comfortable bathing temperature by running the water from a cold spring near by into the tank. It is strongly charged with sulphur and other minerals and often affords relief in cases of rheumatism. The table at the hotel is a pleasant surprise to the traveler, and you sit down to a much more palatable meal than you can find at any hotel in the country, all cooked by the good natured bachelor proprietor and his assistant. Fresh cream, sweet butter and honey are articles one little expects to find in this wilderness, but here they are and we enjoy them hugely. These warm springs are frequently found among the Blue mountains, and sometimes you find an ice cold spring within a few yards of the hot one, at Burgdorf's.

[illegible]

That to the east, [illegible] the pretty meadows of Secesh creek, taking [illegible] Warren's. We take the southern trail, and after a easy ride through dairy meadows [illegible] we strike the Payette river, [illegible] we are [illegible]. We find him to be a very hospitable [illegible], who has put up a few buildings here [illegible] considerable [illegible] in drying and salting [illegible]. This is about as pretty a fish as you can [illegible] in any water, and the average weight is 2½ pounds. [illegible] cured them for us in several styles and we found them very good eating. [illegible] takes them [illegible] to the settlements and mining camps, where they find a ready market. Capt. Bendire, a noted naturalist, [illegible] the redfish is the silver-sided salmon, and that the beautiful red color is acquired by the fish after leaving the salt water and entering the mountain lakes. Louis disputes this theory, and says that after studying the fish for 15 years he has made up his mind that it is a distinct species, and is a native of the mountain lakes. Our party should [illegible] glory by [illegible], and that was that the redfish was fine eating whether he was a salmon and Louis' saying he was a redfish made no difference to the flavor.

[illegible]

Is a great bear [illegible], and this is a good bear country. He has not time to hunt during fishing season, so he has two or three guns or game trails close by, and from the number of bearskins around, it looks as though this bait [illegible] very eagerly taken.

We pass Little Payette lake, and further on come to Big Payette lake. This is a magnificent sheet of water, and from its border you get a fine view of some of the prominent peaks of the rough Sawtooth range. The Payette river flows out of the southern end of the lake, and following it down a few miles we come to Long Valley. This is a vast stretch of prairie and bottom land and somewhat resembles Camas Prairie. The soil is of the richest kind, the Payette river flowing along one side, and numerous tributaries coming in across the valley from the other. There is plenty of timber on every hand, and rich and luxuriant grasses flourish all around you. You could run a mowing machine loose anywhere and cut as much hay to the acre as you could on a cultivated timothy field. This valley is something like 50 miles long by 10 miles wide, and in all that distance not a solitary sign of a settler or stockman can be seen. This large body of virgin soil lies just as it came from the hand of nature, and will some day furnish farms for hundreds of families. At the lower end of the valley you see

PAYETTE FALLS

Mere rapids in the river. There are the graves of Messrs. Munday, Hailey, Groseclose, Crooks and another man, all killed by Snake Indians in 1878. A man named Three-fingered Smith escaped wounded to tell the fate of the others. But these hostile roam here no longer, having been captured the following year by a scouting column.

We turn to the west, and climbing a ridge, follow a trail for twenty miles through open timber, and come out into a pretty valley called Council valley. Old Indian trails come in from all directions, and here is where for ages the red men gathered to have big talks and horse races. The Weiser river, a sparkling stream bordered by noble cottonwoods, flows through the valley. Here are a few ranches, and thousands of acres of good land lying vacant. Further down the river and across a low ridge, is Indian valley, an extensive stretch of good agricultural land, where there are several ranches and a gristmill. A good wagon road connects this section with the Boise City stage road, on Snake river, at the mouth of the Weiser. This wagon road also extends

UP THE WEISER,

And we follow it through a succession of valleys with plenty of wood, water and grass on every hand. About twenty miles of good, easy traveling brings us to Little Salmon meadows, another vast stretch of fine agricultural land, well watered and covered with abundant grass. Here we find White's ranch, a well improved place, with fine growing crops. Mr. White has been here a few years, and speaks very highly of the climate and soil. A few new settlers are just making beginnings near him, and there is abundant room for at least 100 more families. Timber is plentiful and convenient, and nature has done its part in full. The wagon road ends here, and taking a trail through pretty pine openings, a six-mile ride brings us again to Big Payette lake. Here we will enjoy a week's hunting and fishing while resting our horses, and then we will explore the rough country up Salmon river and around Buffalo Hump mountain.

J. W. REDINGTON.

ALBANY NOTES.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

ALBANY, Or., March 19.

Miss Lutie Wakefield of Portland, is visiting relatives in this city.

Circuit court adjourned on Saturday until 1 P. M. to-day. To-morrow, it is thought, will close the session.

M. J. Monteith, leader of the Ladies' Cornet band, left a few days since for California, whither he goes in quest of health.

Sheriff Humphrey escorted Jos. Nimchick and R. Rafel to the state penitentiary on Saturday last, where they will be fed, clothed and looked after generally, free of charge, for the space of one year.

And now the farmer is beginning to wonder if we are going to have any rain at all this spring; and to anxiously surmise as to the fate of the crops in the event of the failure of the heretofore bountiful supply of moisture.

A number of our young people attended the skating masquerade at Lebanon on last Friday evening, and say they had a good time. Miss Nellie Wood and Ed. L. Thompson, of this city, carried off the prizes for the best skaters.

During my perambulations a few days since, I dropped into the chair factory of Pulliam & Livingstone, at the lower end of town. They have but recently started this industry and are turning out a superior line of raw-hide bottomed chairs, for which they are already receiving extensive orders from Portland and other points in the state, besides their local trade. They also construct Ensley's patent bee hive, a most ingenious piece of mechanism which is doubtless destined to become popular with those who keep bees for pleasure or profit.

All the churches in the city omitted their usual services last evening and held an union mass meeting at the court house for the purpose of listening to Rev. S. Hall Young, Presbyterian church missionary to Alaska. The house was full to overflowing, and breathless attention was accorded the reverend gentleman for nearly an hour, while he related what had already been done toward civilizing and christianizing the natives of Alaska, and showed what the possibilities were for the future. A large collection was taken up at the close of the discourse, which will be devoted toward rebuilding the home at Wrangel, lately destroyed by fire. Mr. Young is on his way east for the purpose of raising funds and soliciting aid for this vast field of labor, in which there are at the present time nineteen missionary workers.

SUPREME COURT.

SALEM, March 19, 1883.

Court met at 10 o'clock A. M. Present, full bench.

E. B. Bracson, et al., respondents, vs. Dayton, Sheridan and Grand Ronde Railroad Company, et al., appellants; motion of respondents and appellant Gaston for leave to withdraw petition for a rehearing granted.

John Burt, respondent, vs A. T. Ambrose, appellant; held that appellant was only entitled to an allowance of costs in the county, and a like sum in the circuit court. Judgment of the court below modified accordingly, with costs in this court to appellant.

SYLLABUS.

A judgment awarding a plaintiff full costs and disbursements where he is only entitled to a limited amount is erroneous, and will be modified on appeal, where it appears from the record that the amount taxed is in excess of the amount legally allowable. The appeal in such a case is properly taken from the judgment of the lower court below [illegible] and not from the determination of the statutory proceeding for taxing costs.

A plaintiff in an action to recover in the county court for the recovery of personal property, with damages for its detention, who fails to establish on the trial on appeal in the circuit court a verdict for the property which, together with the damages for its detention, equal to the sum of $50, is only entitled to recover the costs and disbursements on such appeal an amount equal to the sum of such verdict and damages, and a like amount for costs and disbursements on account of the proceedings in the county court before appeal.

Coolidge & McClain, respondents, vs. Birdie Forward et al, appellants; argued and submitted.

Court adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.
